THE BLOOD-BOUGHT PEACE OF TROUBLED PORTUGAL

A Return to the Good Old Times Before Franco's Dictatorship

If There is No Outbreak at the Royal Funeral Next Saturday It Will Be Believed That the Danger of Revolution Will Have Passed.

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—The announced intention of the new cabinet to put an end to repression and restore the old liberal monarchy, which existed in Portugal for sixty years has a soothing effect on the country and tranquility is reported from everywhere in the interior, and today Lisbon seems perfectly peaceful. The willingness of Machado, the republican leader, and republicans generally to acquiesce in the situation if their friends are released seems to insure a return to less strenuous modes of political warfare. Generally speaking another upheaval in the near future is considered practically impossible.

Intense interest is shown in Franco's whereabouts. The drama centers about him, but he remains in seclusion, seemingly crushed in spirit. He declines to see correspondents, to offer a defense of his policy, explain his downfall or his decision to retire completely from the political arena. His elimination is regretted by the commercial classes and foreign elements, who are convinced that his sole object was the good of the country.

The young king himself believed in Franco. The day after the tragedy, while unassuming himself to a lifelong friend, he said: "I intend to retain Franco. He was my father's friend and shall be mine." It is well known, however, that the dowager has always been hostile to the former premier and later Queen Amelie shared her view that the dictatorship had been carried too far. She is said to have remonstrated with him that he might end the tragedy and she invoked him in behalf of a milder course, in memory of what her own family had suffered in Franco, on the day of the assassinations, amid the confusion in the memorable scene in the arsenal quadrangle, where the royal carriage took refuge, when beside her, with grief, the queen turned on Franco and cried: "That is what your work has done."

The reconciliation of these two antagonisms with the influences at work, is believed to furnish the true key to the secret of Franco's downfall. The young sovereign's personality is described by those who know him as very winning. As a lad he has displayed fine manly traits and has considerable artistic talent.

Like his father he was exceedingly fond of outdoor sports such as tennis, riding and shooting. He was reared with great care by the queen, who took the warmest interest in the education of the prince, both when spoke English, French, Spanish and Italian perfectly.

It will be interesting to Americans to know that the king is especially fond of America and Americans. In May, 1904, when he was appointed naval apprentice, an American squadron under Rear Admiral Barker, then at the Azores hastened its arrival a few days at the request of the American minister in order to be present at the ceremony. The prince was overjoyed at the courtesy and, when speaking to Minister Bryan since, he has seldom failed to recall the delight and pleasure he had in the presence of the American officers.

Preparations for the funeral of the dead king and crown prince are rapidly nearing completion. Mr. Bryan has received the appointment of special envoy of America. He transmitted the resolution of sympathy adopted by the American senate to Foreign Minister Lima, who was especially touched by its appreciative form of condolence.

Foreign newspaper correspondents from London, Paris and Berlin are flocking to Lisbon. They seem disappointed at finding the country not in the throes of revolution.

The telegraph lines are already swamped and there are many delays incident to the flood of messages. Increased precautions have been taken by the authorities to prevent the spread of false and alarming reports. Both commercial and press telegrams are examined to see that they conform to the regulations, forbidding the transmission of anything inimical to the public security or irreverent to the royal family.

Premier Ferreira d'Amaral held a lengthy conference today with Senhor Castro and Senhor Vilhelm on what measures should be taken for the speedy reestablishment of the parliamentary regime, in which the efforts of the ministry are receiving the support of the press almost without exception. The leading partisans of the pretender, Don Miguel, have called at the palace to offer their condolences, all the governors of provinces and other high officials have sent their resignations.

In spite of the present tranquility throughout the country there are pessimists who believe that the revolutionary activity is more widely spread than it appears on the surface, and that the situation is not improved by the combination of a young and inexperienced king under the domination of his widowed mother with the reactionary tendencies of a makeshift ministry and a premier who is a socialist rather than a statesman.

The pessimists found additional argument in the report that Franco, although his downfall is complete, does not intend that the campaign which he undertook shall be abandoned and that he is arranging for a selection of a new leader for the regenerator and progressist party. This means a continuation of the struggle from which the republicans expect to derive benefit in the future as they have in the past. Franco's admirers believe it means his dramatic reentry on the political scene at the opportune moment.

The decision not to expose the bodies of the late king and crown prince to the public at the palace tomorrow, but only at the church after the ceremonies is also interpreted as evidence of nervousness in high places. The cabinet today proceeded with the work of demolishing the measures promulgated through the dictatorship. It held a session in the arcade overlooking the spot where the king and his son were murdered.

The commission appointed under the dictatorship to replace the elected municipal officials has resigned. Franco's father was attacked by a mob in one of the principal streets today. The king has signed three decrees. One repeals the decrees issued by Franco which restricted the freedom of the press; another repeals the decree which suspended the privilege of immunity from prosecution of members of parliament and extended the powers of the criminal examining judges. The members of parliament will now be liberated. The official gazette will publish the decrees tomorrow.

A BROTHER'S ANGER

London, Feb. 5.—A special to the Standard says that the duke of Oporto, brother of the late king was present at a state council held in Lisbon after the assassination. The duke charged Franco with the responsibility for the death of the king and crown prince. He even attacked Franco and tried to strike him in the face but members of the council interfered and the men were separated.

THE FLIGHT OF FRANCO.

London, Feb. 5.—A special from Lisbon to the morning Telegraph says the flight of Franco is fully confirmed. According to the dispatch the former premier left Lisbon in an automobile on Tuesday night and is now in Galicia, Spain.

RED FLAG REVOLUTION.

Madrid, Feb. 5.—A special from Lisbon states that the revolutionists in Oporto made a sudden and determined attack on the city hall. They took the municipal guard by surprise and succeeded in forcing an entrance. Then they hoisted a red flag of revolution on the big tower. Their triumph, however, was short-lived, as a reinforcement of police soon arrived and drove out the revolutionaries and tore down their banners. Many were wounded on both sides.

ACTIVE PROSECUTOR

OF THE HELPLESS

Heney's Denunciation of United States Attorney Hall.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 5.—United States attorneys doing politics instead of their duty and appointed by rotten "rotten States senators" is the way Heney characterized some of the government officials in his opening argument in the trial of District Attorney Hall, charged with conspiracy.

Heney had stress on the assertions that Hall catered to those who possessed political influence in Oregon and was ready to assist them when they ran afoul law, although when it came to a man of no consequence Hall developed into an active, energetic and industrious official. He said that Hall had ample evidence on which to proceed against the Butte Creek company, yet he failed to do so because he was shirking his duty.

AN EXPERT IN FINANCE

Mr. Bryan Talks of Currency Needs

He Points Out a Simple Remedy in Cases of Emergency.

New York, Feb. 5.—William J. Bryan spoke of currency needs at a dinner of the Economic Club tonight, which was attended by over 700 diners including many New York bankers, who listened to the speaker with careful attention. Bryan declared that there was no need to extend the note issue of banks as an emergency remedy.

"If I were discussing the Aldrich bill," said he, "I would criticize a number of its provisions. If I were discussing the Fowler bill I would dissent from its provisions, but the point I desire to make is this: That we do not need to extend the note issue of the banks. The government can meet that need simply and quickly by the issue of government notes like our greenbacks in form, and the redemption notes should be loaned by the government upon sufficient security and at a rate of interest which would compel their return when the emergency is over."

CLEVELAND REPUBLICANS DRAWN INTO COURT

A Suit Following Official Recognition of the Taft Committee in Cuyahoga County.

Cleveland, Feb. 5.—As a result of the decision of the republican state committee to recognize the Taft committee in Cuyahoga county followed by a telegram from Secretary of State Thompson, directing the board of elections officially to take cognizance of this committee, a suit for an injunction was filed today against the elections board by Edward H. Hochler, member of the Foraker committee. The action aims to restrain the board from summary action under the call of the Taft committee, and the petition declares that the Foraker committee headed by M. W. Harvey is the only legal republican controlling body in the county.

In concurrence with instructions from the secretary of state, the elections board in a stormy session today rescinded its previous action recognizing the Foraker committee and formally named the Taft committee as the controlling power in the county.

THE MANUFACTURERS

See the president on the Subject of Tariff Commission.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Thirty representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers conferred with the president in pursuance of their desire to have him send to congress a special message recommending legislation providing for a tariff commission. After the conference it was announced that a pledge of entire secrecy regarding the conference had been taken.

It was stated at the White House that no special message on the subject of a tariff commission would be sent congress by the president. The delegates seemed satisfied with the interview and some went so far as to say that it would be unwise to say that there would be no special message.

VICTIMS OF SNOW SLIDES.

Telluride, Colo., Feb. 5.—One man is dying and nine others suffering from more or less serious injuries as the result of five snow slides in the vicinity of Telluride in the past twenty-four hours. Southwestern Colorado is in the grip of the worst snow storm in years.

THE STOESSSEL VERDICT MAY BE GIVEN TODAY

The Attorney of the Hero of Port Arthur Pleads Eloquently in His Behalf

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—The court-martial of Lieutenant General Stoessel is not yet finished. Today Deputy Smirnovoff, counsel for the defense, made an eloquent plea for the acquittal of Port Arthur's commander, picturing the heroic resistance offered by the defenders of the fort under the most trying conditions, and declaring that not until it was inevitable did the fortress fall.

Final judgment in the case will probably be given tomorrow.

FROZEN IN PANTRY.

Two Women Found Dead in a New York House.

New York, Feb. 5.—Two women were found dead today in the kitchen of a house on West Seventy-fifth street. They are Mrs. Margaret Meek Bertie, aged 70, and Mrs. Margaret Kelley, aged 46. There was a little coal in a bin in the cellar and 17 ceggs found in a cupboard. The police think the women were frozen to death. Pawn tickets for eighteen articles of dress and jewelry were found around the premises.

MR. HARMON STILL RUNNING.

Cincinnati, Feb. 5.—Judson Harmon declared that he is as much in the race for the democratic nomination for president as he ever was, on his arrival today from a trip to New York.

ECHOES OF THE MESSAGE RING THROUGH THE HOUSE

The Document Continues to be the Text for a General Political Debate

In the Course of It Yesterday It Was Stated That the Next National Republican Convention Would Declare for Tariff Revision.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Tariff revision and the president's recent message were again the main topics of discussion today, as has been the case for nearly a week. The Indian appropriation bill was ostensibly before the house, but in no quarter was any word spoken in regard to it. The house has apparently made up its mind to discuss the issues of the day, and no effort was made to check the flow of general debate, which will be continued tomorrow.

A long speech by Mr. Payne of New York, chairman of the ways and means committee and the majority leader on the floor, was considered important, because of his assurance that a tariff revision plank will be incorporated in the republican national platform this year. He devoted some attention to Bryan, whom he credited with going about the country accusing Roosevelt of grand or petit larceny.

BEVERIDGE'S APPEAL FOR COMMISSION.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, today delivered an appeal to the senate to adopt his bill providing for a non-partisan tariff commission, a plan which he declared conformed to the modern business ideas on the subject. He spoke an hour and a half, receiving the careful attention of the senators and the large audience in the galleries.

There were present many delegates of the commercial bodies now in session in this city. Several democratic senators spoke briefly on the general subject.

MR. METCALF'S WANTS

Washington, Feb. 5.—Before the house committee on naval affairs, Secretary Metcalf today asked for an appropriation of $12,770,000 for the construction and conversion of war vessels. The impression prevails that the estimate will be reduced materially, possibly $40,000,000.

The secretary urged the necessity of authorizing the construction of four battleships to cost $58,000,000 for all, four scout cruisers at $10,000,000 each, destroyers at $8,500,000, one submarine at $1,500,000, one ammunition ship at $1,500,000, one repair ship at $2,500,000, laying ships (cruisers to be converted and equipped) at $5,000,000, four fleet collars at $27,000,000.

WISH OF THE UNION WAS ANTICIPATED

By the President in the Removal of Public Printer Stillings.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Just as the president's action in suspending Public Printer Stillings was being announced today, a committee of labor leaders called at the White House and presented to the president resolutions adopted by the central labor union, charging Stillings with violations of the 8-hour law in the government printing office and added: "It is difficult to get witnesses against Stillings, for the reason that many of them are employed in the printing office, directly under his charge. We hope however to follow up our oral statement with affidavits if necessary."

The president informed the committee of the action he had already taken in the case. Resolutions by numerous labor organizations in various cities, charging a violation of the 8-hour day, discrimination against veteran soldiers and the widows of soldiers, violation of the civil service law, have been submitted to congress and the president.

PROSPECT OF WORK.

Pittsburg, Feb. 5.—With immediate work for about 2,000 men in sight, the city hall was stormed today by the unemployed and 6,000 application blanks were issued by the civil service commission. Tonight a rush order for 5,000 more blanks was sent to the printers.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY ON VERGE OF WAR

The Trouble Coming About Over a Dispute Concerning the Persian Boundary.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—There is a possibility of hostilities between Russia and Turkey, as a result of the boundary dispute between Turkey and Persia. The situation that caused the dispatch of 5000 Russian Troops in the direction of the Turkish frontier, is discussed by the Novo Vremya today, which professes to believe that war might easily come about.

The paper declares that the present moment is most favorable for Turkey, inasmuch as Russia is involved in interior troubles, and her army disorganized. The Turkish border is without fortifications.

Black Feet Made Them

You will remember I told you yesterday something of why Indians never have corns. I advised those of you who are troubled with foot soreness to come and invest in a pair of Indian Moccasins.

Some of your friends have done so, and while in my store they discovered that my Moccasins were genuine Indian products. They could hardly believe their eyes at first because they had been to every other curio store in Phoenix and had discovered that the so-called Indian Moccasins sold by them were not made by the Indians at all, but were sewed by machinery and made of sheepskin.

I have an immense stock of moccasins and they are the real imported articles. They are every one made by the Black Feet Indians in Canada, and I import them every year by the aid of Uncle Sam's mail service. If you don't believe it come and look at the postal receipts.

The Black Feet make small size Moccasins out of buckskin, while they use mooshide for the larger size. And I can promise you that a Moccasin made by a Black Feet will wear about as long as the soles of your feet. My stock of Moccasins runs from the smallest baby foot to the largest man's size. They are reasonable in price, too.
